Na Hoa Pono 1959

The Clock Tower

The clock of life is wound but once,
And no man has power
To tell just when the hands will stop--
At late or early hour.
Now is the only time you own:
Life, love, work with a will.
Place no faith in tomorrow, for
The clock may then be still.

George H. Candler

I Am A Clock, . . .

Dedicated to the

...born with the college at the time of its conception in the mind of David O. McKay through inspiration.

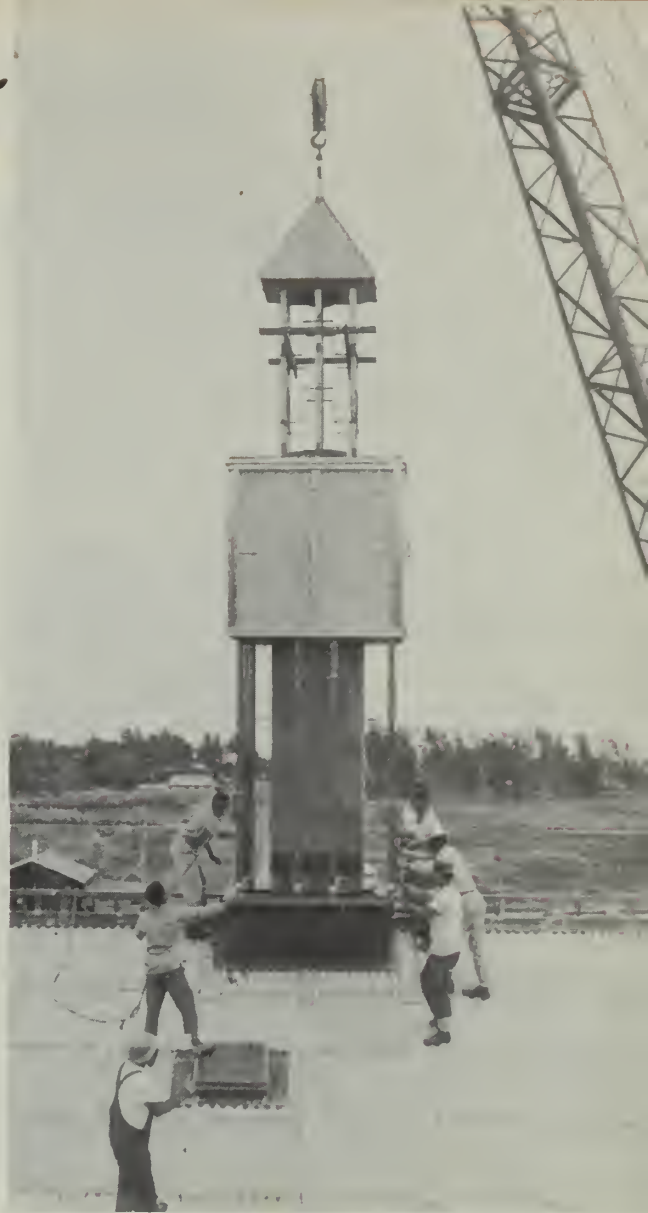

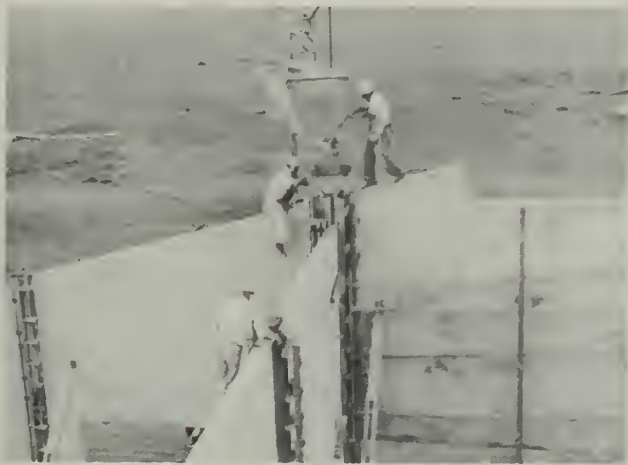

Without the untiring efforts and loving spirits of the labor missionaries in the construction of The Church College of Hawaii, we students would not have these beautiful buildings--classrooms, auditorium, gymnasium and dormitories to enjoy.

This college, built by the loving hands of the Lord's faithful servants, could not be more appreciated by any other students than the freshmen and sophomores of 1959.

Besides keeping this campus in the splendid condition the labor missionaries left it for us, we would like to show our gratitude by dedicating the 1959 Na Hoa Pono to the labor missionaries of The Church College of Hawaii.

Labor Missionaries....

Since my erection by living, loving, working hands . . .

First Faculty....

. . . I number the life seconds of The Church College of Hawaii.

In 1955, I saw the first devoted faculty--valiant pioneers . . .

There is always a beginning to every story. There is usually an end. But the beginning of The Church College of Hawaii will never have an end because of the efforts of those who had the honor of being among its first faculty. These men and women paved the educational path of progress for both students and faculty of today and generations to come.

The first faculty was established in 1955 when the college opened its doors to welcome the first student body. Since then many of the original faculty have left CCH, though a number are still helping to shape its destiny. However, the memories of these "pioneers" are deeply imprinted in the lives of students as well as in the old campus.

With love and mahalo, to the first faculty of The Church College of Hawaii the dedication of the Na Ho'a Pono of 1959 is proudly presented.

First Studentbody

The Church College of Hawaii, being established in the year 1955, had as its student body a numbered few who faced the task of establishing a student government and a name for the college.

Being the first students to open the doors of The Church College of Hawaii, was not an easy accomplishment. But because of their persevering efforts which have been carried down through the years, The Na Hoa Pono is dedicated to the first student body of The Church College of Hawaii.

. . . just as were the faithful students of that first year . . .

Dedication of The College

In the beginning

...All helping to make a dream come true.

The Finished Product

. . . All helping to make a dream come true.

Dedication, December 17, 1958

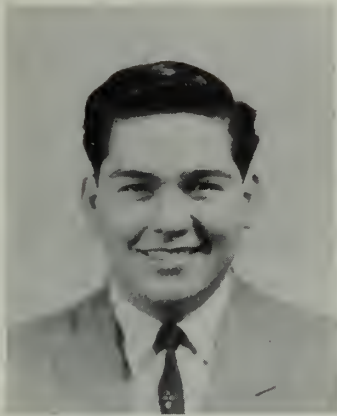

Now the long awaited day has arrived.

There are many matters that are presented to the school pertaining to the college's social, physical, mental, and spiritual well being. Some people are recent graduates of famous colleges. They did not make their colleges famous however. The record and school spirit of early graduates brought the fame.

May we ask the graduates of The Church College of Hawaii: Is your Alma Mater a college of reknown? It is not. Whether it will ever be is in your hands to a large degree, for you are the very early graduates whose good lives and love of your college must make its reputation.

Whether it is better to receive reflected light from an old institution or be the light of a new one is not for you to decide now about your college. Your claim to glory from these two years must be the candle power you yourselves beam from the college. Then it will shine a light in which you and others can build confidently for the unknown years ahead.

You and many may rightly believe (and I do) that since our Father in Heaven needs this college to be great, His influence brought you here at this very time. I have heard testimonies of the destiny that has moved in your lives to make you important to an important cause.

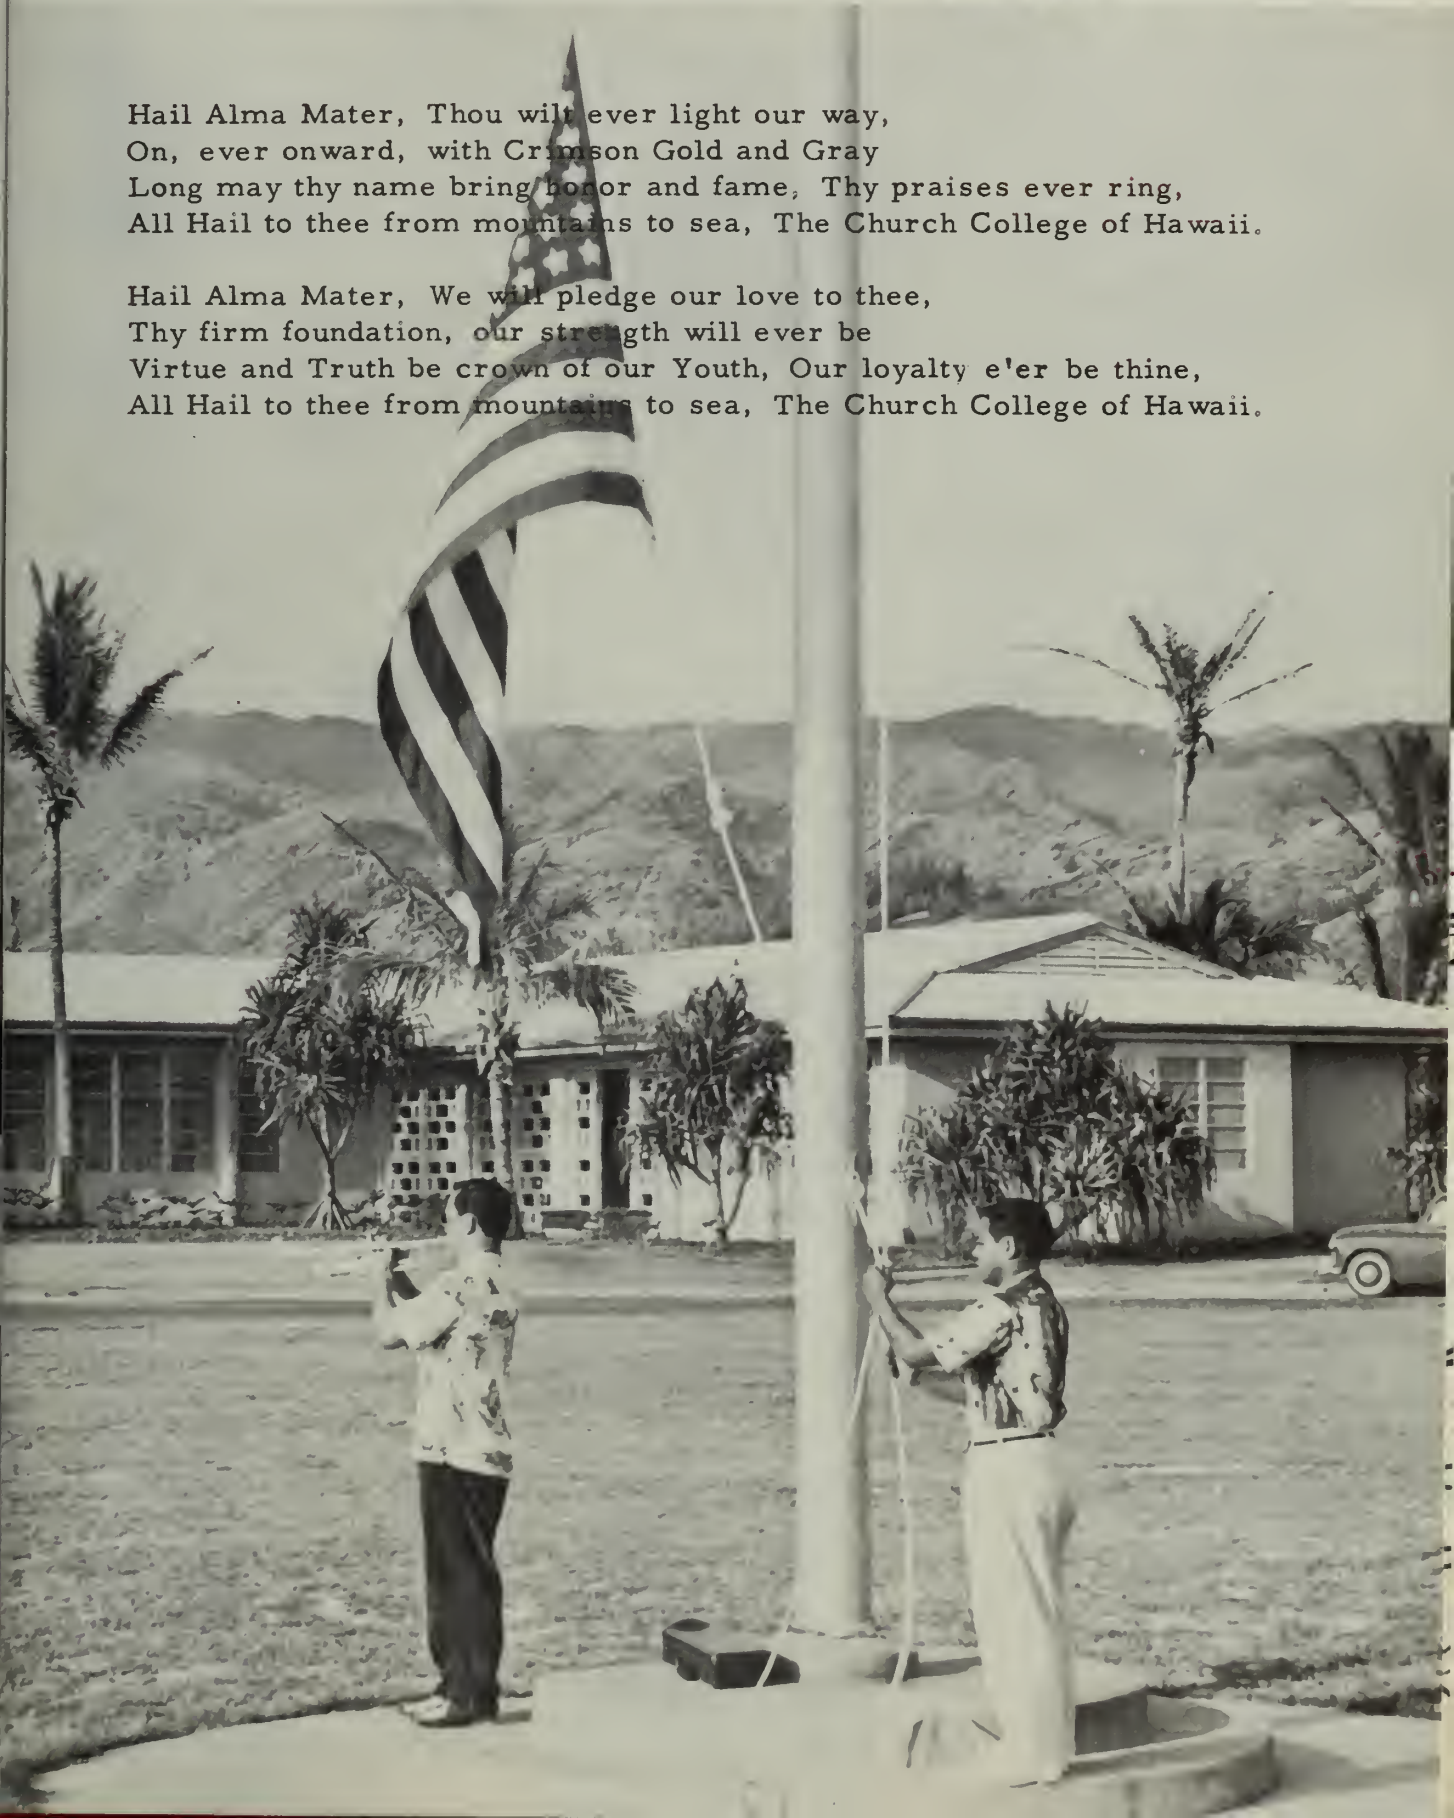

The purpose of the college is the upbuilding of the students. Its success will, therefore, be properly judged not by its matchless campus and not by its friendly faculty, but rather by its student integrity and ability. You have been the important people here this year. All other efforts are important only as you and your fellow students before and following are important.

These things being so, we may expect that as you now sing, "All hail to Thee from Mountains to Sea," this shall soon mean more than from the Koolaus to Laie Bay. It shall mean from the Himalayas to the Seven Seas.

Hail Alma Mater

Hail Alma Mater, Thou wilt ever light our way,
On, ever onward, with Crimson Gold and Gray
Long may thy name bring honor and fame, Thy praises ever ring,
All Hail to thee from mountains to sea, The Church College of Hawaii.

Hail Alma Mater, We will pledge our love to thee,
Thy firm foundation, our strength will ever be
Virtue and Truth be crown of our Youth, Our loyalty e'er be thine,
All Hail to thee from mountains to sea, The Church College of Hawaii.

The members of the Executive Council accomplished many things during the past year. They united in purpose and in ideals. Decisions and outline of duties of the student-governing body were their most important responsibilities. They supervised the student body affairs, committees, and organizations.

Ishmael Stagner, the intelligent and thoughtful president who was responsible for the major decisions of student activities, led the students through a successful year.

The friendly, hard-working vice president, Castle Kailimai, shared with "Ish" the responsibility of the student assemblies and presided over meetings of the student legislature. During the second and third quarters, freshman, Gary Wong, held the responsibility of vice president and carried out his duties with a friendly smile and a ready hand to accomplish the work put before him, such as the NSA conference.

Helene Meyers, a jovial sophomore, was the secretary. She kept records of the executive meetings and handled the student body funds.

Abbie Waiwai, as secretary-historian, took the minutes of student legislature meetings and kept a historical record of the past year in the "big red book."

Every Friday night the students of the campus were seen entertaining on talent shows or in plays; laughing at beach parties, movies or sports night; or dancing at the school's cafeteria or swimming pool. Such events will never be forgotten by the students, and these events all came about through the never-ceasing efforts of the Social Committee. With such leaders as Brother Wylie Swapp and Gladys Chu the social nights at CCH were always events the students looked forward to having.

The choir provided music for conferences of both the Honolulu and the Oahu Stakes and played a very prominent part in the dedication program.

The Branch was the guiding light of each CCH student in his efforts to attain his goals in life. The successful leadership of the Branch was shown through the high attendance records for all the meetings.

Under the leadership of Branch President Frank Condie, the Campus Branch achieved its purpose of bringing security to the students of The Church College of Hawaii.

The AWS, a growing and industrious organization of women on campus, welcomed the fourth year of its existence with the "Big and Little Sister" acquaintance program.

Its purpose was to acquaint freshman girls with new friends and new experiences of college life.

The Preference Ball, held on the eve of Valentine's Day, was sponsored by the AWS. It turned out to be one of the most successful and important dances of the year. The women chose secret dates, and everything was done by the women.

The highlight of the dance was the crowning of Jacob Hueu, the man whom the women on campus chose to be "Most Preferred."

The school year closed with a farewell tea given by the AWS, thus ending a year of accomplishments by CCH women students.

Being the younger of the two classes at The Church College of Hawaii does not prevent the freshmen from participating in school activities and accomplishing in many areas.

They had such events as initiation which they endured with a smile and a thought in mind of "wait till next year!"

They had a foot in the student body affairs and contributed their share of talents through the talent show and the inspiring "Fiftieth State" assembly.

They had a hand in the deputation team, the social committee, and in the various clubs of the campus.

Wherever there was a spade digging in the ground, decorations going up, a broom brushing away the rubbish, a burst of laughter, a sob of tears, a dorm side door opening, a freshman was behind it.

They've had their share of difficulties such as come to every newcomer in college. But they are not easily defeated. Instead, they accept what is placed in front of them with a smile and a burning ambition. "We are ready to follow the paths the sophomores have trod."

"C'mon, Pilikua — you lazy giant — everybody knows who makes the wheels go at State Savings. I'm the menehune who sold 393 new Christmas Club accounts, increased our yearly assets by $2,000,000 in 1958, and stepped up Home Loan business by 18% in the same period. I give prompt, personalized service, and there's lots more rabbits up my sleeve for 1959 . . ."

"So—you're a menehune. Working miracles for happy investors is your department. Me, I'm the immovable tower of financial strength who protects your customers. I guarantee 3½% yearly return on every savings dollar — and insure all accounts to $10,000. You're the brains, I'm the brawn—OK? Ask the one-of-three investors who will eventually save at State . . . what good is one without the other?"

As the sophomores conclude their second and last year at CCH, none of them really want to leave. They've contributed too much to the college, helping it to be a shining light to everyone who comes here. They've had a helping hand in building and establishing the new campus. They've been the back bone of the student government, the never failing examples to the underclassmen.

They've also had their share of talent--singers, musicians, artists, athletes, leaders in church and school activities.

They've gained so much from CCH that leaving it gives them a feeling of ingratitude. But they acknowledge the experiences, the laughs and tears, the development, they've accumulated here at CCH, and they are going forth into the world carrying these memories with them. Every doorstep they pass, every person they meet, will receive an essence of the spirit of CCH.

They are leaving with hearts filled with hopes for the future and a knowledge of the truth gained at this institution, established by holy inspiration. They are leaving with the honor of being the first class to graduate through the permanent doors of the Church College of Hawaii.

They, the honorable class of 1959, leave with this message: "We, being graduates of The Church College of Hawaii, are prepared to meet the world and its problems."

The Na Hoa Pono staff would like to extend a friendly hand to: Mr. Higs of Universal Studio who patiently endured with us the individual picture-taking; Arnold Boe who generously gave of his time to produce the pictures for the annual. An especially fond aloha goes to Mr. Bob Naganuma and Fisher Corporation for their guidance and friendship. We are grateful for our relationship with this printing firm.

We would like to thank Albert Llanos and Ross Cummings for the superb art work. To Marilyn Kosora, Sammie Leong, and Raphael Dela-Calsada go our thanks for furnishing the snapshots.

There are many people whom we cannot name because of the lack of space, but through the publication of this year book, we reflect our thanks to those behind-the-scene workers--students, faculty members, and other people involved. Our deepest gratitude to all for making our 1959 Na Hoa Pono a possible.

determined that they should live on through eternity.

CCH was shocked to hear of the tragic death of Corazon Raboy, who died as a result of injuries she received in an automobile accident during the Christmas holidays.

A very attractive girl with a friendly personality, Corazon would have been graduated this June.

She was always smiling and was a constant source of encouragement and cheer.

The loss of Corazon and her rare attributes has been very deeply felt.
